MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT AND EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

Our work is made possible by the commitment of our partners, friends and donors like you. We truly appreciate your support.

Asian Americans Advancing Justice | AAJC (Advancing Justice | AAJC) enjoyed a successful and exciting year in 2013. In June, we came together with our affiliates to form Asian Americans Advancing Justice and transitioned to a new name. Along with our affiliates in Chicago, Los Angeles and San Francisco, we are building upon our legacies and collective expertise to work together to promote a fair and equitable society for all by advancing civil and human rights and empowering Asian Americans, Pacific Islanders and other underserved communities.

The year was full of great accomplishments that moved our country forward, but much work remains. Asian Americans across the nation marched, fasted, rallied and came together on issues that matter to our families and our communities. With renewed momentum around comprehensive immigration reform, we brought attention to Asian Americans' investment in immigration reform. Across the country our partners participated in public events, community forums and rallies that engaged 1,700 community members, and resulted in 30 ethnic and mainstream media mentions. With your help we created the Reuniting Families for a Stronger America campaign, which has been critically effective in the debate and contributed to the passage of a comprehensive bill in the Senate that includes a path to citizenship for approximately one million undocumented Asian Americans.

In addition to our immigration reform efforts, we continued to make strides on other issues of importance to our community. Advancing Justice | AAJC participated in seven major civil rights cases that came before the Supreme Court last term. In preparation for the 2014 election year, Asian Americans Advancing Justice conducted a first-of-its-kind, in-language election survey.

The resulting report, Behind the Numbers, revealed how Asian American voters felt about current issues and what factors influence our community at the polls.

In August, I was humbled and honored to join other national civil rights leaders at the Lincoln Memorial to deliver remarks for the celebration of the 50th anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s March on Washington. This momentous occasion drew communities from across the country to join together and celebrate Dr. King's legacy and his ongoing dream for a more just and equitable society for all Americans.

As we enter the fourth year of our Partners Advancing Justice Capital Campaign, we are truly grateful for the generosity of our supporters and friends. Through this unprecedented match opportunity funds raised from new donors, or funds raised in excess of their annual amount from existing donors, are matched on a one-to-one basis. With your support, we can continue to build capacity and strengthen our national programs in the years to come.

This annual report highlights the accomplishments of Advancing Justice | AAJC, our affiliates and our partners across a diverse array of program and issue areas. Our work is made possible by the commitment of our partners, friends and donors like you. We truly appreciate your support, and we look forward to your continued partnership as we promote a fair and equitable society for all.

Mee Moua
President and Executive Director

ABOUT US

Founded in 1991, Asian Americans Advancing Justice | AAJC (Advancing Justice | AAJC) (www.advancingjustice-aajc.org) works to advance the human and civil rights of Asian Americans, and build and promote a fair and equitable society for all.

Advancing Justice | AAJC is one of the nation's leading experts on issues of importance to the Asian American community, such as affirmative action, anti-Asian violence prevention/race relations, census, immigrant rights, immigration, language access, television diversity and voting rights. Our expertise is widely acknowledged in the media, by the public and among lawmakers at the very highest tiers of government.

In 2013, we came together with our affiliate organizations to form Asian Americans Advancing Justice (Advancing Justice). Our national affiliation allows us to raise a more powerful voice to better serve our communities and become more effective in addressing the civil rights issues faced by Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders (APIs) and other vulnerable and underserved communities. Under this strengthened affiliation, Advancing Justice members are able to collaborate more effectively and build a stronger and more cohesive civil rights infrastructure on a local, regional and national level.

OUR AFFILIATES

ADVANCING JUSTICE | ASIAN LAW CAUCUS

Founded in 1972 and based in San Francisco, Advancing Justice | Asian Law Caucus (www.advancingjustice-alc.org) is the nation's first legal and civil rights organization serving low-income Asian American and Pacific Islander communities.

Advancing Justice | ALC mounted a public campaign to raise awareness of the devastating effect of Ellis Act evictions on low-income families in California. Advancing Justice | ALC's high-profile client case led to public support for a city-wide anti-displacement agenda to ensure that San Francisco remains a viable home for all its residents.

After three hard-fought years, Advancing Justice | ALC continued to ensure a strong AAPI voice for immigrant rights by successfully pushing for the passage of California's TRUST Act. The TRUST Act is one of the most promising alternatives to the virulent anti-immigrant legislation in states like Arizona, Alabama and Georgia and it is estimated that it will stop more than 10,000 unjust deportations in the state annually. The first law of its kind in the country, it is now a model for other states seeking to get local police out of the deportation business.

In February, Advancing Justice | ALC won a settlement of $750,000 for Vietnamese nail salon workers in San Mateo and Santa Clara counties, providing workers with back pay and unpaid overtime, as well as policy changes that affirm their right to speak Vietnamese in the workplace.

In October, Advancing Justice | ALC settled a lawsuit against San Mateo County to stop the dilution of Asian and Latino votes in the County. There has never been a single Asian American Supervisor in San Mateo County, even though Asians and Latinos now compose more than 50 percent of the county's population. Advancing Justice | ALC also co-sponsored precedent-setting legislation to expand the opportunity to monitor elections in California to non-citizens, affirming a vision of immigrants as integrated members of our communities.

In addition to community empowerment and impact work, Advancing Justice | ALC helped more than 1,500 low-income community members with linguistically and culturally competent legal services.

ADVANCING JUSTICE | CHICAGO

Advancing Justice | Chicago (www.advancingjustice-chicago.org), established in 1992 by a group of visionary activists, academics and business leaders, has a mission to empower the Asian American community through advocacy, education, research and coalition-building.

It was a vital year for Advancing Justice | Chicago as it embraced its national affiliation and changed its name and visual identity from the Asian American Institute, all while embarking on new initiatives and expanding legacy programs. In 2013, Advancing Justice | Chicago continued the Asian American Leadership Forum, drawing nearly 200 people from different sectors, and training them on community issues.

On the state level, Advancing Justice | Chicago spearheaded a State Agenda that included securing new funding for Hepatitis B outreach, creating a language access task force and protecting immigrant services in the state budget. As part of this effort, Advancing Justice | Chicago organized 425 Asian Americans advocates to come down to the state capital and talk to legislators. This expansion of the civic engagement work, including a more robust voting rights effort in Illinois, was supported by The Joyce Foundation and W.K. Kellogg Foundation.

On the national level, Advancing Justice | Chicago partnered with a variety of organizations pushing for immigration reform. In March and November, we participated in two action days, mobilizing hundreds of Asian Americans to voice their support for immigration reform that includes a pathway to citizenship for undocumented immigrants and protects the sibling visa category.

Advancing Justice | Chicago also grew its youth programming in 2013 launching Kinetic, its youth empowerment program in Chicago Public Schools, working with 100 immigrant and refugee students. And Advancing Justice | Chicago continued its college leadership initiative, the Impact Fellows Program. This year the program trained 11 students in organizing and leadership, arming them with the skills to create change on their respective college campuses.

ADVANCING JUSTICE | LOS ANGELES

Founded in 1983, Advancing Justice | LA (www.advancingjustice-la.org), formerly known as the Asian Pacific American Legal Center, is the nation's largest legal organization focused on Asian American, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander (AANHPI) communities.

In 2013, in addition to providing assistance to thousands of low-income and limited English speaking immigrants, Advancing Justice | LA brought several important lawsuits. In one case, Advancing Justice | LA sued the state to provide services to tens of thousands students learning English. Advancing Justice | LA also represented Chin Ho Liao, a Chinese American elected to a local city council but denied his seat under questionable circumstances. Advancing Justice | LA was able to vindicate Liao's eligibility to serve on the council, an important victory for a growing and increasingly politically engaged Asian American electorate in Southern California.

Advancing Justice | LA also deepened its work to protect voters from disenfranchisement, including the release of a national Advancing Justice report on Voting Rights Act compliance. It also pushed for passage of a landmark state law that allows legal immigrants to serve as election workers. As the Affordable Care Act rolled out, Advancing Justice | LA launched California's most ambitious effort to educate AANHPIs about the law, working with its state wide Health Justice Network and partly supported by a $1 million state grant.

In partnership with its affiliates, Advancing Justice | LA continued its A Community of Contrasts studies, a series of easy-to-use demographic reports examining the diversity and complexity of AANHPI communities. In 2013, Advancing Justice | LA released new reports on California and Los Angeles County.

OUR WORK

Advancing Justice | AAJC filed an amicus brief to the Supreme Court in Shelby County v. Holder in support of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act.

BUILDING DEMOCRACY VOTING

In partnership with Asian and Pacific Islander American Vote (APIAVote) and the National Asian American Survey, Advancing Justice | AAJC published “Behind the Numbers,” a post-election survey of AAPI voters in the 2012 election, which showed the importance of the AAPI vote. The report found that nearly half of registered AAPI voters consider themselves independent or undecided with respect to party affiliation, showing that many are open to persuasion and outreach in future elections. In addition, language ability continues to play an important role in the preferences of AAPI voters and uneven access to language assistance remains a significant concern, even in places where the Voting Rights Act mandates assistance.

In November, in partnership with the Lawyers’ Committee on Civil Rights Under Law, Advancing Justice | AAJC and APIAVote hosted the second Asian language election protection hotline at 1-888-API-VOTE. We provided assistance to callers on Election Day in Bengali/Bangla, Cantonese, Mandarin, Korean and Vietnamese.

Early in the year, Advancing Justice | AAJC filed an amicus brief to the Supreme Court in Shelby County v. Holder, in support of Section 5 of the Voting Rights Act, which limits certain jurisdictions from making any changes to voting-related laws without approval from the Justice Department or a federal District Court. While petitioners challenged the constitutionality of the provision, Advancing Justice | AAJC voiced that Section 5 remains necessary to protect Asian American voters from discrimination, provide them with required language assistance and to eliminate other barriers to voting. Unfortunately, the Supreme Court invalidated the formula used to determine Section 5 coverage. Advancing Justice | AAJC continues to work with coalition partners to promote a legislative fix for the Shelby decision and to mobilize the AAPI community in support of voting rights.

CENSUS

Advancing Justice | AAJC continued its leadership role in promoting a robust and accurate census with the appointment of Mee Moua to the Census Bureau’s National Advisory Committee on Racial, Ethnic, and Other Populations in June. We are already working to ensure that the AAPI community is adequately represented in the 2020 Census.

In November, we published the Advancing Justice regional demographic report focusing on the Northeast. We worked with the Asian American Federation, Asian Americans United and the Boston Chinatown Neighborhood Center to bring the report to our communities in New York, Philadelphia and Boston.

EXPANDING OPPORTUNITY HEALTH CARE

Advancing Justice | AAJC helped form the Asian American, Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islander National Collaborative, which seeks to create greater understanding of the Affordable Care Act (ACA) among Asian Americans and Native Hawaiian and Pacific Islanders (NHPIs) and to support Asian American and NHPI enrollment. Advancing Justice | AAJC’s critical role in the Collaborative focuses on educating our communities about the ACA’s civil rights protections, including language access.

Advancing Justice | AAJC continued to advocate for robust ACA implementation. We submitted comments on behalf of our organization and the Asian & Pacific Islander American Health Forum on the section that focuses on language assistance. We explained how critical these services are for people who have difficulty speaking English as they try to avail themselves of the ACA’s services.

In addition, Advancing Justice | AAJC engaged in advocacy on the Health Equity and Accountability Act. This bill is a comprehensive compilation of advocates’ most up-to-date policy recommendations and research findings on eliminating health disparities. Advancing Justice | AAJC co-leads the committee working on the section of the bill on social determinants of health to address the root causes of health disparities through a broader examination of the factors that impact one’s health.

MEDIA AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Advancing Justice | AAJC continued collaborating with the Federal Communications Commission (FCC), to ensure that its rules promoting the transfer of wireless spectrum from TV broadcasters to wireless operators take minority ownership of television and wireless spectrum into account. Advancing Justice | AAJC was the leading voice of our community as the FCC weighed how to regulate our nation’s telecommunications infrastructure as it transitions from old to modern technology. Through our efforts, tests and data tracking will be required by the FCC in order to protect underserved communities through the transition.

We also educated lawmakers about, and successfully defended, the FCC’s Lifeline program, which provides telecommunications subsidies for low-income households, against proposals in Congress that would have capped the program’s budget and prohibited it from subsidizing wireless services.

We met with FCC staff and others to ensure that the FCC’s E-rate program, which provides telecommunications subsidies for schools and libraries, receives adequate funding. We circulated a letter that a dozen organizations signed on to explaining the program’s benefits. In 2014, the Obama administration said the federal government would invest $2 billion in connecting and upgrading schools’ and libraries’ high-speed Internet services.

Mee Moua speaks on the steps of the U.S. Supreme Court about the importance of the Voting Rights Act to Asian Americans.

Advancing Justice | AAJC also met with FCC staff to ensure critical information needs studies, which are necessary to properly reflect the needs of individuals who have limited English skills in crafting programs to increase diversity. Advancing Justice | AAJC successfully modified the studies for better inclusion of Asian communities. We also advocated against relaxing media-ownership rules, which would lead to further industry consolidation and drown out diverse voices.

In addition, we facilitated an extension of the 2013 Digital Connector program, resulting in youth participants conducting more than 1,000 additional digital literacy trainings this year.

PROMOTING A JUST AND INCLUSIVE SOCIETY

ANTI-ASIAN VIOLENCE

Military Hazing

Advancing Justice | AAJC submitted joint testimony to the Army regarding the death of Pvt. Danny Chen. We urged that the two individuals involved not receive honorable discharges from the Army to send a clear message that the racially motivated abuse and harassment that Pvt. Chen endured was unacceptable.

The anti-hazing coalition, led by Advancing Justice | AAJC and OCA—Asian Pacific American Advocates, met with high level army officials to discuss how the Army can improve its training, reporting, accountability and enforcement of anti-hazing policies.

AFFIRMATIVE ACTION

Equal Opportunity in Higher Education

In November, Advancing Justice | AAJC filed an amicus brief to the U.S. Court of Appeals in support of the Supreme Court's ruling in Fisher v. University of Texas at Austin. The Supreme Court upheld the principle of diversity in higher education but remanded the case to the Fifth Circuit for review. Our brief explained how affirmative action policies benefit Asian Americans, refuting the plaintiff's claims to the contrary.

Judicial and Executive Branch Nominations

Advancing Justice | AAJC advocated for confirmation of Pamela Chen, U.S. District Court (Eastern District, New York); Derrick Kahala Watson, U.S. District Court (Hawaii); Sri Srinivasan, U.S. Court of Appeals (DC Circuit); and Raymond T. Chen, U.S. Court of Appeals (Federal Circuit). And we continue to support confirmation of Vince Chhabria, U.S. District Court

(Northern District of California); Indira Talwani, U.S. District Court (Massachusetts); and Theodore Chuang, U.S. District Court (Maryland).

We also advocated for the confirmation of Tom Perez as Secretary of Labor and Jenny Yang as a member of the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.

We continue to advocate for the confirmation of Debo Adegbile as the Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights with the U.S. Department of Justice.

MARRIAGE EQUALITY

In February, Advancing Justice | AAJC urged the Supreme Court to protect and afford equal rights to same-sex couples as the court considered two challenges to such efforts. In two briefs, authored by the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, we added and amplified the Asian American voice to the debate surrounding gay rights. True to our core mission, we continued our efforts to end all forms of discrimination, increase access to government services and benefits and support opportunities for all people, regardless of sexual orientation.

IMMIGRATION

Early in the year, Advancing Justice | AAJC launched the Reuniting Families for a Stronger America Campaign to secure common-sense solutions for our family-based immigration system by building support for the Reuniting Families Act. Through community education and political advocacy, the Campaign is pushing for legislative fixes to the inhumane visa-application backlogs, ensuring that family reunification is part of any overall immigration reform.

Supporters of the Reuniting Families campaign on Capitol Hill.

In April, we brought more than 200 community members from across the country to our nation's capital to participate in the "Rally for Citizenship."

We met 15 times with legislators, congressional staff and White House officials—including a May meeting with President Obama himself—to advocate for comprehensive immigration reform. We used these opportunities to explain the importance of the family-based system. In the spring, Mee Moua appeared before the Senate Judiciary Committee to discuss the issue.

In April, we brought more than 200 community members from across the country to our nation's capital to participate in the "Rally for Citizenship." Delegations met with more than 30 congressional offices as a result. Advancing Justice | AAJC also joined numerous pro-immigration reform mobilizations throughout the year, including the "Fast 4 Families" campaign.

Over the past year, Advancing Justice | AAJC worked closely with Senator Mazie Hirono (HI) and other members of the Senate Judiciary Committee on amendments related to family immigration and female immigrants during the committee's markup of the Senate immigration bill, S. 744 bill. An amendment introduced by Senator Hirono that would have made the proposed legislation more inclusive of women gained 22 co-sponsors and helped generate greater support from women's groups.

Community Partners

In addition to our work on the federal level, we supported advocacy efforts on behalf of immigration reform at the local level through providing educational materials, toolkits, conference calls, webinars and technical assistance. As a result, we saw unprecedented engagement by AAPI communities on the issue. We have also worked with our Community Partners to collect personal stories to show the community's stake in immigration reform.

Youth Engagement

Advancing Justice | AAJC sought to energize young people in the immigration reform debate. Our Youth Advisory Council connected with 25 AAPI college groups; launched the Reuniting Families photo project on Facebook; and got students to call Senate Judiciary Committee members to make their stance known. Through their efforts, the council reached approximately 700 students. The council also re-launched the Youth Network's Tumblr blog to highlight their personal immigration stories.

In November, council members attended the Advancing Justice Conference, where they ran Advancing Justice | AAJC's immigration photo booth and collected more than 50 stories and photos attesting to the importance of immigration reform for the Asian American community.

Advancing Justice hosted the 5th annual Advancing Justice Conference November 14-16 in Los Angeles. The conference brought 1,000 participants from across the country to California to discuss current issues, common challenges and opportunities facing the growing Asian American community.

Over the three-day conference, attendees had the opportunity to participate in a wide array of plenaries, workshops and caucus sessions. Mee Moua served as moderator for the closing plenary, "Winning Immigration Reform: What Will It Take and How Will We Do it?" which provided insights into the current push for reform, discussed lessons learned from our past struggles and looked ahead to how we can transform our nation into one that values, supports and honors newcomers. This year's conference also featured the launch of an intensive capacity-building institute to help enhance the skills and knowledge of community members in order to become stronger, more effective advocates for justice.
